‘Teachers demand higher pay and a cut in workload’

The SSTA is conducting a survey of members on the proposed pay increase for teachers in 2017-2018 (1% from April with a further 1% from January to March 2018).

Seamus Searson, SSTA General Secretary said, “The initial finding highlights the lack of recognition of the important work that teachers undertake and the unhappiness of the profession. Although pay is critical in retaining teachers the ‘never ending’ workload is pushing many teachers away”.

“The survey showed 90% of teachers believed the current pay increase will not encourage teachers to remain in the profession. The survey confirms the view that many teachers are considering a career outside of teaching (68%).

“There needs to be real recognition and a commitment to focus on the retention of teachers with a significant pay increase instead of looking at new recruits to solve the problem. There is little point in turning on the tap of recruitment when you have forgot to put the plug of retention in the bath”.

Seamus Searson added “at this early stage 66% of members are prepared to take strike action should pay not be increased above inflation in 2018. The recent Scottish Budget will not help teachers as very few will benefit from the changes in tax or proposed lifting of the pay cap”

The initial findings of the survey showed

- 78% not content with the 2017 Pay increase
- 96% believe the 2017 pay increase will not attract more people in to teaching
- 90% believe the 2017 pay increase will not encourage teachers to remain in teaching
- 68% are considering or have considered a career outside teaching
- 49% are expecting a substantial pay offer in 2018
- 53% are not expecting changes/reductions in workload in 2018
- 50% are prepared to take strike action on the 2017 pay increase
- 66% are prepared to take strike action should the 2018 pay increase be below the rate of inflation
Comments from members highlight the situation

“The demands and unrealistic expectations of teachers are no longer worth the mediocre pay. I'll be leaving the profession as soon as I can find a suitable job”.

“I am now poorer than when I started the job in 2007”.

“Money should be used to retain existing highly skilled teachers. I am still paying off a student loan after 14 years of teaching”

“Teachers need a substantial increase and a radical change to workload”

“The proposed pay increase does not reflect the demands of the teaching profession. The proposal is insulting in terms of workload, constant development work and does not show the importance of the teacher and their contribution to society”.

“They are relying on goodwill and I feel that it is time that our goodwill and patience is recognised. Enough is enough and reluctantly it is time for strike action”.

Kevin Campbell, SSTA President added “SSTA members care passionately about the young people they teach and have committed huge effort to give them every opportunity. This commitment needs to be recognised in terms of pay. Unfortunately, teachers pay has been allowed to fall to the point that many classroom teachers are unable to make ‘ends meet’ and really struggle to reach pay day each month”

Please note
The member survey began on Monday 11 December and is set to close on Friday 22 December. 932 members had responded to the survey by 15 December.

SSTA opposed to the formation of an Education Workforce Council

The SSTA at its December Council meeting passed a motion to oppose the Deputy First Minister’s proposal regarding the formation of an Education Workforce Council and urges the Government to abandon plans to create such a Council.

Seamus Searson, SSTA General Secretary said “The SSTA believes that by removing the GTCS it would be a retrograde step and would compromise the independence and integrity of the GTCS. This would be to the detriment of the teaching profession in Scotland.

“The thrust of ‘Empowering Scotland’s Schools’ in the area of the General Teaching Council (Scotland) seems to be aimed at the dissolution of a world class, self-funded and independent body that registers and maintains teacher standards in Scottish schools.

“GTCS is self-funded by teachers and requires full registration before someone can work in our schools. Considering it is one of the few areas in education that is still generally viewed as being world class and a model of good practice due to it ensuring that high standards are met and maintained, it is somewhat curious that it is now under attack”.

“The consultation bill says, ‘We intend that the Education Workforce Council for Scotland should operate independently from Scottish Ministers’ (p27) except when it suits ‘We intend to include in the Education Bill a power for Ministers to amend the list of practitioners required to register’ (p29)”.

“The GTCS has many critics but it is democratic, fairly representative and open to all to put themselves forwards to directly influence our professional standards”.

Kevin Campbell, SSTA President concluded

“The GTCS was set up in 1965 to counter fears about the number of unqualified teachers in schools. It now seems that the Scottish Government, rather than tackling salary and working conditions that are falling through the floor, see the upholding of professional standards as an obstacle to the insertion of cheap labour into our schools”.
‘What is your New Year’s Resolution going to be?’

“ALMOST 10,000 teachers were attacked in Scotland’s schools over the past three years”
GREG CHRISTISON Express Jan 1, 2017

Violence - We all agree it is increasing in our schools; most of us can hazard a guess at why - cuts to support staff, inclusion, lack of power to exclude?

So what can YOU do about it?

Report it, record it and demand your rights?

We know only a fraction of incidents are reported. The familiar cries of “well - it’s just that class, part of the job, no time, it’s not worth it, nothing gets done”... but please read on.

We are our own worst enemies if we do not report & record; we cannot demand action, support or training.

We need hard facts and figures to demand change; without these we will inevitably be asked to cope or ignored. Zero Tolerance means you (and me); together we can make a difference.

So make it one of your new year resolutions to report all incidents, no matter how small. Make sure a record is kept, and that your school forwards it to the local authority. Ask for a copy, and remember your rights; if in doubt, read the advice note on the SSTA website.

Make it your New Year resolution ‘Report & Record ALL incidents this year’

Let’s make next year a better and safer one for all teachers.

The Definition of anti-social behaviour and violence is :

Any incident in which an employee of a school is seriously verbally or physically abused, threatened, attacked or harassed

By a pupil, parent, member of the public or any other person in circumstances arising out of the course of his/her employment.

This includes any statement or action that causes the member of staff to fear for their safety, the safety of another, the school or for their personal property.

Independent auditors’ report to the members of SCOTTISH SECONDARY TEACHERS’ ASSOCIATION

We have audited the accounts of Scottish Secondary Teachers’ Association for the year ended 31 December 2016 which comprise the Cash Flow Statement, Income and Expenditure Account, the Balance Sheet and the related notes. The financial reporting framework that has been applied in their preparation is applicable law and United Kingdom Accounting Standards (United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice) including FRS 102 “The Financial Reporting Standard applicable in the UK and Republic of Ireland” to the extent that the standard is relevant to the Association.

This report is made solely to the association’s members, as a body. Our audit work has been undertaken so that we might state to the association’s members those matters we are required to state to them in an auditors’ report and for no other purpose. To the fullest extent permitted by law, we do not accept or assume responsibility to anyone other than the association and the association’s members as a body, for our audit work, for this report, or for the opinions we have formed.

Respective responsibilities of the Finance Committee and Auditors

As explained more fully in the Statement of Finance Committee’s Responsibilities, the Finance Committee members are responsible for the preparation of the accounts and for being satisfied that they give a true and fair view. We have been appointed under the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 (amended 2016) and report in accordance with regulations made under this Act. Our responsibility is to audit and express an opinion on the accounts in accordance with applicable law and International Standards on Auditing (UK and Ireland). Those standards require us to comply with the Auditing Practices Board’s (APB’s) Ethical Standards for Auditors.

Scope of audit of accounts

A description of the scope of an audit of accounts is provided on the APB’s website at www.frc.org.uk/apb/scope/private.cfm.

Opinion on the accounts

In our opinion the financial statements:

• give a true and fair view of the state of the association’s affairs as at 31 December 2016 and of its incoming resources and application of resources, including its income and expenditure, for the year then ended;
• have been properly prepared in accordance with United Kingdom Generally Accepted Accounting Practice;
• have been prepared in accordance with the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 (amended 2016); and
• the information given in the Finance Committee’s Annual Report is consistent with the financial statements.

Matters on which we are required to report by exception

We have nothing to report in respect of the following matters where the Trade Union and Labour Relations (Consolidation) Act 1992 (amended 2016) requires us to report to you if, in our opinion:

• the association has not kept adequate accounting records; or
• returns adequate for our audit have not been received from branches not visited by us; or
• the accounts are not in agreement with the accounting records and returns; or
• we have not received all the information and explanations we require for our audit.
